LOCUSTWOOD CEMETERY

Sunday, May 17, 2026 - 10am

1500 Marlton Pike W, Cherry Hill, NJ 08002

Established in 1903, Locustwood Cemetery in Cherry Hill, New Jersey is located 10 minutes from the Cherry Hill Mall and down the street from what was once the Garden State Racetrack. The grounds are nestled in a serene setting of beautifully landscaped lawns and stately trees, with four stately Doric columns which once overlooked a reflection pond that was part of an exhibit at the 1939 World's Fair in New York.

Locustwood is a non-sectarian cemetery serving all faiths. Facilities include Estate Sections, Garden, Chapel, and Sheltered Mausoleum crypts and Columbarium Niches. A consecrated Jewish section and Garden of Jacob mausoleum is offered for those of the Jewish Faith, and there is a Veteran's Section as well as an American Legion Section.

Flagging the graves of our veterans at Locustwood Cemetery is rich in our American Legion history and is now a tradition in its 87th year. It is done on the Sunday prior to Me-

SERVICE TO BE HELD FOR PRIVATE HENKEL

Memorial services for Pfc. George A. Henkel, 21, U. S. Marine Corps, who was killed July 12 by a sniper on Saipan island, will be held at 10.45 a. m. Sunday in Bethany Lutheran church, Fourth and Powell streets, Gloucester.

Private Henkel was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Henkel, of 220 Pennsylvania avenue, Brooklawn. Also surviving are two sisters.

WWII Hero - Sgt Albert Arcinese
Wounded in Action

Sgt. Albert Arcinese, of 934 South Sixth street, who was reported missing in action, is recovering from wounds in a hospital in West Virginia, his wife, Lillian May, reported yesterday.

Arcinese had been reported missing in a telegram received Oct. 28. On Nov. 3, his wife received a second telegram that he had returned to duty on Oct. 5. Monday he telephoned from the hospital. Yesterday's War Department list, however, still contained his name as missing.

Memorial Day Weekend - rain or shine. It began in 1935 when Locustwood Cemetery deeded 400 free grave sites to the American Legion for use by Legionnaires and their spouses, and erected a monument memorializing their service. As part of the transfer of grave sites, the American Legion members began their tradition of flagging the veterans graves in the cemetery, along with an annual Memorial Day Service at the monument and the NJ American Legion Statewide Services and Parade, which is held the Sunday after Memorial Day.

Today, there are over 2,400 graves of veterans in the cemetery, some in the dedicated American Legion section and others in the Jewish Veterans section, where Jewish War Veterans began flagging Jewish graves in 1998.

Flags: Jack Huhn of Cherry Hill places flags on veterans' World War II, has been placing the flags at the Cherry Hill cemetery every Memorial Day weekend since 1947.

Jack Huhn, Past Commander of American Legion Post 372 and a WWII Navy Veteran, participated in flagging of the graves at Locustwood for over 50 years before his passing

There are numerous veterans in this cemetery that paid the ultimate sacrifice during the wars - from WWII to GWOT – some of which are highlighted in this brochure and last years video. While flagging their graves in preparation for Memorial Day, we also flag the graves of veterans that passed away after serving our country – a show of respect and remembrance for their service.

In addition to our veterans, we also flag our first responders graves, who have protected and kept us safe at home. One such hero is Cherry Hill Police Officer Louis Duffy, who was killed in the line of duty in 1947.

Locustwood is also the resting of place of several young veterans and first responders that passed away recently and unexpectedly, not in the line of duty, but while serving our great nation. They include Anthony Evans (2017), Justin Major (2021) and most recently, one of Camden County Police Departments finest – Police Officer Daniel Adler, who was interred here on Friday, May 20th, 2022.

May we be eternally grateful for our servicemen and women who put their lives on the line and make the ultimate sacrifice.

pose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land."

Despite what the day has transitioned to in American culture, it was established to honor and remember America's fallen.

Don't thank the current troops

At least, don't thank them just because it's Memorial Day. They deserve respect and gratitude every day of the year, but Memorial Day is set aside specifically for America's fallen warriors.

America's living veterans are honored during November on Veteran's Day when we aim to remember and appreciate the service of all veterans. But, Memorial Day allows the country to focus on those service members who are no longer with us – an important distinction.

Don't disregard its importance

Though discounts abound for nearly everything from cars to furniture to pool supplies, that's not what Memorial Day is about. Allowing the day to become synonymous with deep discounts and potato salad, is letting it slip from the public's mind completely. When it becomes simply a highly-anticipated extra morning of sleeping in, instead of the day of reflection and appreciation it was meant to be, we disrespect our fallen troops.

Don't wish anyone a "Happy Memorial Day"

It is not Christmas – Memorial Day was not founded in joy with the promise of bringing glee each year. It was established as a way for the country to set aside time to honor our servicemen and women who had given their lives in service to America.

In 1868, Gen. John Logan declared the day for "the pur-
